2 | SCOPE

The main purpose of the festival is to use cinema to activate an exchange between cultures, with the aim of exploring different identities. The festival was started to encourage the use of the art of film as an essential factor in cultural, economic and social promotion and development and a tool for dialog and integration between cultures.

In this context, the object of study of the University of Gastronomic Sciences—gastronomy, an element of exchange between different civilizations—offers the possibility of a holistic approach to the question of integrating differences through the creation of bridges between the different cultures of human “biodiversity.”
