Art. 6 – Examination committee

The Examination Committee is named by Dean's Decree, recorded in the Faculty Register and posted on the University website.

The Examination Committee is composed three members:

- a. the Dean, or his representative, who chairs the committee,
- b. a level I professor from the subject area of the contest, or from the scientific-subject sector for which the comparative evaluation procedure is held,
- c. a level I or II professor or a tenured university researcher, based on their scientific and professional curricula.

Eventual motions by the applicants to exclude one or more members of the Examination Committee, as per arts. 51 and 52 of the Code of Civil Procedure, must be submitted within 10 days of the posting of the Committee's composition on the University's website.

Art. 7 – Modalities of execution of the comparative evaluation procedure

The comparative evaluation process is divided in two phases.

The first is designed to select a short list of candidates by examining the academic titles, the curricula and the scientific publications (including the doctoral thesis). The first stage concludes with the admission of the applicants judged most deserving to the next stage. Usually, somewhere between 10 and 20% of the applicants pass to the second stage, and in any case not less than six make the short list. If the total number of applicants is less than or equal to six, they are all admitted to the second stage.

The preliminary evaluation of the applicants is carried out by the Committee in compliance with the parameters and criteria indicated in Ministerial Decree n. 243, of 25.05.2011, and are listed below:

Evaluation of academic titles and curriculum

The Examination Committee carries out a motivated evaluation followed by a comparative evaluation, with reference to the specific contest sector and the eventual profile, defined exclusively through the indication of one or more scientific-subject areas, the curriculum and the following academic titles, suitably documented, held by the applicants:

- a. research doctorate or equivalent, or, for the contest sectors in question, a diploma of medical specialization or the equivalent, earned in Italy or abroad;
- b. eventual teaching activity at the university level, in Italy and/or abroad;
- c. documented training or research activities at a qualified Italian or foreign institute;
- d. organization, direction and coordination of national and international research teams, and/or participation in the same;
- e. speaker at national and international conferences and seminars;
- f. national and international awards and prizes received for research activities;

Each academic title indicated above is evaluated by judging its significance in terms of the quality and quantity of research activities carried out by each single applicant.

Evaluation of scientific production

In carrying out the preliminary comparative evaluation of the applicants, the Examination Committee takes into consideration only publications or papers that have been accepted for publication, in compliance with the norms in force, as well as contributions in volumes of collected articles and articles in hard copy or digital periodicals, excluding internal memoranda, departmental reports and/or working papers. The doctoral thesis or thesis for equivalent titles is taken into consideration regardless of the abovementioned conditions.

The Examination Committee bases its comparative evaluation of the above indicated publications on the following criteria:

- a. originality, innovativeness, methodological rigor and importance of each scientific publication;
- b. the pertinence of each publication to the contest sector indicated in the tender and/or with the profile indicated at art. 1, or to interdisciplinary topics related to it
- c. scientific importance of the publisher of the publications and its diffusion within the scientific community;
- d. analysis, also on the basis of criteria recognized by the international scientific community of reference, of the individual contribution made by the applicant, in the cases of papers with multiple authors.

The Examination Committee must also evaluate the overall weight of the applicant's scientific production, as well as its intensity and temporal continuity, with the exception of periods, suitably documented, in which the applicant was impeded from conducting research activities, with particular reference to parenthood.

Public discussion of academic titles and scientific production

The names of those admitted to the discussion included in the second stage and the dates in which the same will be held will be posted on the University website - <http://www.unisg.it/ateneo/procedure-di-valutazione-comparativa/> - with at least 7 days' advance notice. By law, the posting on the University website is equivalent to an official notification of qualification for the discussion stage. If the applicant does not attend on the scheduled date, his/her absence will be considered as a voluntary withdrawal from inclusion in the comparative evaluation process, whatever the reason.

The second stage consists of the public discussion of the academic titles and scientific production with the Committee. The committee may elect to conduct said discussion in the foreign language for which proficiency is requested in the call. At the end of the discussion, the Committee assigns a point value to the academic titles and each of the publications submitted by the candidates admitted to the discussion stage.

Written and oral exams are excluded from consideration, with the exception of written or oral exam testing proficiency in the foreign language requested in the call.

In the carrying out of the two evaluation stages, the Committee may opt to utilize digital tools with shared access.

The Committee's records are composed of the minutes of each meeting, of which they are an integral part, including:

- individual and group evaluations for each applicant in the first phase;
- point scores for the applicants admitted to the second phase;
- grade for the oral foreign language proficiency test.

When this process has been completed, the Committee indicates eventual applicant(s) suitable for hiring, based on the criteria specified above.

Art. 8 – Conclusion of the Examination Committee procedure

The Examination Committee is called upon to conclude the selection procedure within 120 days of the deadline for the submission of applications.

After the comparative evaluation has been completed, the Examination Committee indicates, by majority vote, the most suitable candidate, based on the criteria specified above, drafting a brief summary report explaining its decision and containing the individual judgments of each member and the group judgments for each applicant.

Having thus fulfilled its mandate, the Examination Committee consigns the records of the selection procedure to the Dean.

Within 30 days of receiving said records, the Dean issues a Decree recognizing the validity of the records. In the case in which the Dean finds irregularities or formal errors, he returns the records to the Examination Committee and sets an irrevocable date for their rectification.

The records of the selection process are posted on the University website and can be accessed freely.

Within 60 days of the Dean's ratification of the records, the Faculty Council formulates a proposal to formally hire the applicant selected, which is put to the Board of Directors, which deliberates on the activation of the contract.

Art. 9 – Stipulation of the individual work contract

Within 30 days of the date of the motion to activate the contract by the Board of Directors, the Researcher selected through the comparative evaluation procedure is invited to sign a temporary work contract with the University of Gastronomic Sciences, for a period of three years, for the carrying out of research, teaching activities and student services. The work contract, which is drawn up in written form, is signed by the Researcher selected and by the Registrar, and must specify:

- a. the contest sector, or the corresponding scientific-subject area in which the Researcher on temporary contract will be active;
- b. the type of contract;
- c. for type a)- a full time work schedule;
- d. the modalities with which the Researcher on temporary contract shall carry out his/her assigned duties;
- e. rights and obligations of Researchers on temporary contracts;
- f. withholding and pension deductions, required by the applicable laws for employee income;
- g. a trial period, during which either party may withdraw from the contract at any time, without advance notice and effective immediately, simply via notification of the other party;
- h. contract termination clauses.

The contract offered is not calculated in assigning tenured positions at the university level.

As expressly specified in point 1 of the technical attachment to the Ministerial memorandum of January 28, 2011, protocol 7, temporary work contracts stipulated with Researchers, such as those described in these Regulations, are taken into consideration by the Ministry of Education, Universities and Research for the purposes of verifying the fulfillment of faculty requisites by Universities and ratifying the activation of their annual course offering.

Art. 10 – Duration, renewal and amount of the work contract

The contract has an initial duration of three years and can be extended only once, upon expiry, for an additional two years.

The gross annual salary received by the researcher, net of the withholding amounts required by law, is equal to the initial gross annual salary due to the researcher when hired, according to the work schedule.

The amounts due are paid to the beneficiary in relation to the work performed, as per the conditions of the contract.

The contract holder is entitled to severance benefits (TFR).

Art. 11 – Taxes, social security and insurance coverage

The contract referred to in these Regulations is subject, in fiscal terms, to the dispositions of art. 4 of Law n. 476 of August 13, 1984, and subsequent modifications and integrations, as well as, in terms of social security, the dispositions of art. 2, paragraphs 26 and following, of Law n. 335 of August 8, 1995, and subsequent modifications and integrations; with reference to obligatory abstention for maternity leave, as per Ministerial Decree of the Ministry of Labor and Social Security, dated July 12, 2007 and published in the Official Gazette n. 247 of October 23, 2007, and with reference to sick leave, as per art. 1, paragraph 788, of Law n. 296 of December 27, 2006 and subsequent modifications. During the period of the obligatory maternity leave, the payments made by the INPS pursuant to art. 5 of the above cited Decree of July 12, 2007 are integrated by the University to match the entire amount of the researcher's regular salary; the researcher is obligated to register separately with the INPS offices.

The University of Gastronomic Sciences provides on the job insurance coverage for injury and for damages to third parties for holders of researcher positions.

Art. 12 – Incompatibilities and the holding of other posts

The contract in question cannot be simultaneously cumulated:

- a. with research contracts described in art. 51 of Law 449/1997;
- b. with teaching contracts subject to the applicable laws in force;
- c. with doctoral and post-doctoral fellowships and in general with any and all scholarships or grants, including those issued by third parties;
- d. with any other employment contract with a public or private body.

The Dean has the right to request that Researchers on temporary contracts perform teaching duties in addition to those expressly specified in the contest call.

Researchers on full-time temporary contracts are permitted to carry out additional assignments on behalf of third parties if so authorized by the Faculty Council.

Art. 13 – Application of the employment contract

Researchers on temporary contracts carry out research activities, teaching activities and student services, as indicated in art. 1 of this contest call.

The activities carried out by Researchers on temporary contracts are subject to verification by the Dean, who reports his evaluations to the Faculty Council. Said verification is carried out yearly and focuses on the adequacy with which the Researchers on temporary contracts carry out their assigned duties as described in the contract. For this purpose, at the end of each contract year, Researchers on temporary contracts must submit a report to the Dean on the activities carried out.

In cases in which the verification reveals inadequate performance of the assigned teaching and/or scientific duties, including the execution of research programs, that preclude the continuation of the contract, the regulations described in art. 14 below shall apply.

Art. 14 – Termination of work contract

The termination of the work contract occurs at the end of the stipulated period or by withdrawal of one of the parties. Pursuant to the regulations in force, the total duration of work contracts stipulated by researchers on temporary contracts, as per art. 22 of Law N. 240 of December 30, 2010, including those with other Universities, public or private or digital, as well as with the bodies specified in art. 22 paragraph 1 of Law N. 240 of December 30, 2010, cannot exceed twelve years, regardless of interruptions; periods passed on maternity or sick leave are not counted in this total, as per the regulations in force. Calculations of the total duration of work contracts include only contracts signed in compliance with Law N. 240 of December 30, 2010.

The parties may withdraw from the contract when there is a cause that, in compliance with art. 2119 of the Italian Civil Code, precludes its continuance, even provisionally. In the case of withdrawal, the parties are obligated to give advance notice of 30 days; in the case that advance notice is not given, the Administration is entitled to withhold the employee's salary for an amount corresponding to the period of advance notice not given. If the Administration fails to give advance notice, the employee is entitled to receive salary payments for the period of advance notice not given.

Art. 15 – Restitution of documents and publications

At the conclusion of the selection process, applicants must, at their own expense, reclaim the publications and documents deposited with the University of Gastronomic Sciences.

The University shall not be in any way responsible for the restitution of the same; applicants must reach an accord with the Comparative Evaluations Office for the restitution of their publications and academic titles, either by collecting the material in person or by assigning a courier or a proxy to reclaim the above indicated documentation.

6 months after the issuance of the Dean's Decree approving the records of the selection process, posted on the University website, if no request for restitution of the documents and publications submitted during the selection process has been received, the University is no longer responsible for keeping and returning the documentation in question.

Art. 16 – Treatment of personal information

Pursuant to Leg. Decree n. 196 of 2003, the personal data furnished by applicants are processed exclusively for the purposes of this call and are stored at the University of Gastronomic Sciences – Comparative Evaluations Office, with the relative records kept on digital supports and in hard copy.
