HEREBY DECREES

Art. 1 – Number of research grants/positions available

A public competition for the assignment of n. 1 grant for the carrying out of research activities (hereinafter the “research grant”) at the University of Gastronomic Sciences.

Art. 2 – Research Project

- Title of the research project: Healthy Municipal Soils (HuMUS)
- Funding Programme and Grant code: HORIZON-MISS-2021-SOIL-02, HORIZON-CSA.
- Research objectives and activities:

The EU mission "A Soil Deal for Europe" (Soil Mission) aims to lead the transition to healthy soils through sustainable soil management. This requires knowledge and awareness of the importance and value of soil health and its challenges and driving factors across Europe. Involving and mobilizing municipalities and regions across Europe to protect and restore soil health is vital for the successful implementation of the Soil Mission. Creating spaces for dialogue with Quadruple Helix stakeholders, including marginalized and/or vulnerable sections of the population, on soil health and land management issues can help develop a shared understanding of the challenges and help co -create solutions for soil protection and restoration. In this context, the main objective of HuMUS is to facilitate the deployment of the Soil Mission between regions and municipalities, through: (i) the creation and experimentation of spaces for social dialogue on soil health between public and private stakeholders in Europe; (ii) promoting shared understanding and co-evaluation exercises of soil challenges (biophysical and socio-economic dimensions); and (iii) improving knowledge sharing between municipalities and regions, including on necessary transformations in current S4 (Sustainable Smart Specialisation) strategies and on the use of available EU funds to support the transition. HuMUS will support the involvement of stakeholders and citizens in decision-making processes through case studies, educational and capacity building activities, as well as exchanges of good practices at regional and local level. HuMUS will further contribute to awareness raising regarding the problems of regional and local governments, businesses and society at large through the use of the Biodistricts multi-stakeholder methodology, by which well-informed local production and consumption models are planned in a coordinated manner by all players in the supply chain. HuMUS will encourage, in particular, social innovation and the implementation of a transdisciplinary approach. In each partner territory, regional and local governments will be closely associated from the outset in order to develop effective participatory processes and stimulate broad dialogues on soil health. Regions and municipalities will have the power to reflect, deliberate and propose adequate and realistic solutions together with citizens and stakeholders. HuMUS will create and manage collaboration opportunities and dialogue spaces between citizens and other stakeholders (e.g. farmers and other land users) and public authorities in order to mutually benefit from both the discussions in HuMUS and the latest developments and results of European projects and networks. HuMUS will also support public authorities at local/regional level, associations of land managers (e.g. finance at least 20 exemplary pilot projects). Consequently, HuMUS will also help to increase knowledge sharing between municipalities and regions by matching needs with methods, tools and approaches already available for social engagement and knowledge enhancement. The consortium is composed of universities and research centers with experience in participatory approaches and multi-stakeholder partnerships with a broad coverage of governance at E, regional and municipal levels.

The research grant holder, under the supervision of the scientific coordinator of the research programme, will:
